There is much to be said about the incisiveness of architects. Used to thinking about problems in three-dimensions, they often have a multi-faceted approach to even those questions that are (on the surface) simple.

So it is with great curiosity that Arbus asked the following architects to name their favorite spot in Northeast Florida. The answers we got provide a glimpse past composed and professional exteriors, into the heart of what makes these people tick.

"There is no better place to get quiet than on the water in a kayak. It is hard not to appreciate nature's beauty from that vantage point."

"I believe that Jacksonville deserves a vibrant and engaging downtown. We moved our office downtown from the suburbs seven years ago. I enjoy being a small part of our urban fabric. Area residents should invest a little time to explore the possibilities for business, entertainment and cultural enrichment that the downtown district offers."
